ADDRESSING RISING COSTS

- As costs across the country rise due to global inflation, Governor Gavin Newsom has proposed an $18.1 billion inflation relief package to get money back into the pockets of Californians and bring down costs for California families.

$18.1 Billion Inflation Relief

$11.5 Billion for Tax Refunds to Help Address Inflation: As the entire country faces increasing costs due to inflation, Governor Newsom has proposed getting $400 checks to millions of Californians.

$2.7 Billion for Emergency Rental Assistance: Governor Newsom is proposing significant state funds for qualified low-income tenants who requested rental assistance before March 31st to get the help they need to stay in their homes.

$1.4 Billion to Help Californians Pay Utility Bills: As Californians continue to face difficulties in paying for utility bills, this investment expands upon last year's utility relief program to continue this vital support - $1.2 billion for electricity bills and $200 million for water bills.

$933 Million for Hospital and Nursing Home Staff: Providing up to $1,500 to hospital and skilled nursing facility workers and doctors who have been delivering care to the most acute patients during the COVID-19 pandemic and saved thousands of lives.

$750 Million for Free Public Transit: Governor Newsom is proposing incentive grants to provide three months of free public transportation for communities throughout the state.

$304 Million to Make Health Coverage More Affordable for Middle-Class Families: This extends health insurance premium assistance under Covered California. This means eligible individuals could receive a $3852 annual subsidy and eligible families of four could receive a $7,400 annual subsidy.

$439 Million to Pause the Diesel Sales Tax: Bringing relief to the commercial sector and drivers, Governor Newsom is proposing a 12-month pause in the sales tax rate for diesel fuel.

$157 Million to Waive Child Care Fees for Low-Income Families: Making child care more affordable for state-subsidized preschool and childcare. 40,000 low-income California families can save up to $7,140 per year.

This inflation relief package builds off of last year's stimulus package, which helped accelerate California's economic recovery and support those hit hardest by the pandemic, including:

Golden State Stimulus checks for 2 out of every 3 Californians: The Governor created the biggest state tax rebate in American history, expanding direct payments to middle-class families, with $9 billion in stimulus payments delivered directly to middle-class Californians and families.

Largest statewide renter and utility assistance program in the country: Governor Newsom put forth a plan to distribute $5.4 billion to help low-income renters and landlords, as well as $2 billion for past-due water and utility bills.

Largest small businesses relief program in the nation: The Governor invested $4 billion in direct grants to California's small businesses – on top of $6.2 billion in tax relief – putting more money directly into the pockets of hundreds of thousands of small business owners and helping them re-hire workers displaced by the pandemic.
